DRIVE-IN SUMMER

by Karl Sup

Just before the summer heat descended upon our fair state, the club headed out to the only remaining drive-in movie theatre left in the Phoenix Metropolitan area. Years ago, drive-ins seemed to be on every other stretch of desert with their magical silvered screens flickering in the hue of twilight.

Gone are the days of the quaint, fuzzy-speakered boxes that perched on the open windows. Nowadays you just tune your FM radio to a preset station for the local 'broadcast' of your movie soundtrack. Because many cars in attendance only had AM radios, we came prepared with a portable battery-operated stereo and camped out in the middle of our classic cars to eat snacks, drink soda and enjoy each other's company before the movie started. It was a double-feature with the first showing being Sahara, a much better movie than last year's outing.

Many stayed for the second feature, with the moon high and the day winding down. Overall it was a great night out!!

President's Message

If you attended a meeting in the last couple of months, you know that I will not be running again for President. I've enjoyed serving you the last 5 years and plan on remaining an active member. I encourage all of you to consider running for the position. Especially those of you who have enjoyed attending the many activities we have. If you have any questions about what the job entails, please ask.

Summer is here and even though it's hot outside, we can still have a lot of fun! If you missed the indoor kart racing we did on June 4th, rest assured we had a fantastic time. Lots of speed demons in the club! Come with us to Prescott for a car show on June 18th and enjoy some cooler weather. On July 9th we will be enjoying the wonderful air conditioning at Casino Arizona while we eat dinner and watch a Las Vegas style show. The Oldsmobile Nationals are taking place in Seattle Washington in July, and it will definitely be cooler there. So far a few members have made plans to attend. You should too. If you decide to go, let me know and I'll put you in touch with the other members that are going. Read the newsletter thoroughly so that you don't miss any of the information on all the upcoming events.

Please note that all the summer meetings will take place at 5:00 p.m. instead of the usual 4:00 p.m. The reason for this is so that by the time the meeting is over and we go outside to the car show, it should be starting to cool down.

Until we see each other again.....Happy Oldsmobiling!

Gloria

When was the last, or for that matter the first, time you changed the engine mounts in your Olds? I have never in my long association with turning a wrench ever had to change a mount... that is, until last month. My 1973 Cutlass S had a broken left mount and it was discovered during the tranny rebuild.

I made a few discoveries during this seemingly simple chore. The first and most obvious, but often overlooked, is that your favorite parts supplier can indeed sell you the wrong part (not the first time that ever happened, right?). The second discovery is that it's not a simple task, if you don't have a lift to put your vehicle on.

The "recommended" aftermarket mount I purchased was an Anchor #2261. That was based on me telling the supplier that I had a '73 Cutlass, with a 350 engine. After raising the car to an acceptable height, for me to move easily under it, and positioning a jack under the harmonic balancer, I was ready to start.

The bolts came out comparatively easily, considering they were the originals and had never been removed before (remember, I am the original owner). I removed the left mount first and installed the #2261 mount and lowered the engine to install the pin through the mount and the frame.

Guess what? It was bottomed on the rubber and still was about $\frac{3}{4}$ of an inch off. I figured it might be because I needed to change both at the same time and so removed the right mount. After installing that mount to the engine block, I lowered the engine again and wouldn't you know it... now both mounts were bottomed out and both about $\frac{3}{4}$ of an inch from allowing a pin bolt to be inserted.

Well, after some commiserating with Marc over the phone, we decided to take another approach. Marc said that perhaps my frame had been configured for a 455 and the catalogued mount may not be correct. Even when I went on-line to search for a mount, using the vehicle specifications, I came up with Anchor #2261 mounts. Well, I decided to go to another supplier and provide only the original mount part number. I wasn't going to tell them what car or what engine I had.

The original mount was P/N 410817 and that's what I provided the supplier. He promptly retrieved two each Anchor #2328s, and guess what? They worked! Really slick task when one has the right parts!! Still don't know if my Cutlass had been originally configured for the larger engine.

Moral to this story... if you've had problems with a supplier selling you the wrong parts after you provide him or her with details of your car, use the original part number approach instead. They can cross-reference part numbers and save you a great deal of effort.

Oh, by the way, the right mount was still quite good. The cause of the left mount failure was that our good buds on the assembly line at Oldsmobile forgot to install the left heat shield. Probably too much psychedelic involvement before, during and after their work shift (it was 1973 after all!). Anybody know where I can find a left heat shield?

OLDSMOBILE MOTOR MOUNT MYTHS

by Joe Padavano

The question of which motor mounts to use when replacing an A-Body (F-85, Cutlass, Cutlass S, Cutlass Supreme, 442) small block with a big block comes up frequently on the Olds mailing list. Here my understanding.

ALL Olds motors (big and small block) have the motor mount bosses in the same location relative to the crank centerline - the only difference is the deck height. The year of the block (or the displacement for that matter) has absolutely NO effect on the type of motor mount to use. The only thing that matters is the matching frame mount. You must use the motor mount that matches the frame mount in the car.

If it was originally a small block car and you do not intend to change the frame mounts, get small block motor mounts. These will bolt to the big block and will allow the engine to sit in the exact same location relative to the frame as it would have in a factory installation. Alternatively you could use matching big block motor and frame mounts, but for all this extra expense and effort the engine will still be sitting in the same location.

Big block engine mounts with big block frame mounts - OK
Small block engine mounts with big block frame mounts - the engine will be 1-2" too low Big block engine mounts with small block frame mounts - the engine will be 1-2" too high

Note, by the way, that the big block is about an inch taller than the small block when measuring from the crank centerline to the carburetor flange, so even if you the matching mounts, the air cleaner and valve covers will be higher in the engine compartment. The crank centerline, fan, and flywheel will all be in the same location as they were with the small block.

The only thing you need to remember is that the rubber motor mounts and the metal frame mounts need to match. Nothing else matters.

The Sealed Power catalog is incorrect and shows:

270-2261 - 1964-69 all V8 exc. w/400
270-2261 - 1970-72 all 350
270-2328 - 1970-72 all 455
270-2380 - 1973-77 all 260, 350R, 455
270-2328 - 1979-80 all 260P and 350N Diesel
270-2380 - 1979-80 all Cutlass Supreme and Calais 350R
270-2380 - 1980 all 307
270-2380 - 1978-81 all 260F gas
270-2328 - 1981 Cutlass Cruiser Station Wagon 260F gas
270-2328 - 1981 all 350N Diesel

It should rather read:

1964 - 1968 small and big block motor mounts 270-2261
1969 - 1972 small block motor mounts 270-2261
1969 - 1972 big block motor mounts 270-2328
1973 - up small and big block motor mounts 270-2380

This is a classic example of an incorrect catalog listing. The problem is that the 64-69 small block and 65-68 big block motor mounts are identical. The 1969 400 mounts (and 455 for the 69 H/O) were changed to the taller design used on the 69-72 cars. The small block mounts were changed in 1970. The listing should say "1964-69 all V8 exc. 1969 w/400".

HISTORY

The problem started in 1969. The original motor mounts used on the earlier cars were simply two pieces of metal with rubber molded in between - there was no interlocking feature. GM went through a massive recall in the 60s to repair broken motor mounts of this design. As a result, the big block cars, starting in 1969, got the interlocking design. Unfortunately, this design required the motor mount to be taller, so the frame mount was changed to move the cross bolt (the bolt that attaches the motor mount to the frame mount) further down on the frame mount. The 64-68 (and 69 small block) frame mounts have the cross bolt hole about 1 1/2" down from the centerline of the two top bolts that attach the frame mount to the cross-member. On the 69-72 big block mount, this dimension is about 2 1/4". The rubber motor mounts are correspondingly different (the 69-72 big block motor mount is about 1" taller than the 64-68 V8 (and 69 small block) mounts).

In 1970, Olds redesigned the small block mounts to also incorporate the interlocking feature, but did this in a way that did not require the cross bolt to be moved. Thus the 70-72 small block frame mounts still use the 1 1/2" dimension. There is, however, a difference between the 70-72 small block mounts and the 64-68 V8 (and 69 small block) frame mounts. The raised pad is smaller and biased towards the top of the mount. Thus, I do not think it is possible to use the 70-72 small block motor mounts on the 64-68 frame pads. On the other hand, it probably is possible to use the 68-68 V8 (and 69 small block) mounts on the 70-72 frame mounts.

Finally, starting in 1973 Olds realized that there was no reason to maintain two different motor mount designs and went back to using a common motor and frame mount design on both big and small blocks.

And one more word of advice. Don't rely on any catalog, other than the factory parts catalog, to tell you what motor mounts fit where. As I noted in a prior post, the Sealed Power catalog is flat wrong.

IDENTIFYING FRAME PADS

You can check by measuring from the center of the two top bolts that hold the mount to the frame to the center of the cross bolt that attaches the frame mount to the motor mount. The big block frame mounts will measure about 2 1/4", while small block mounts will measure about 1 1/2". Whichever ones you have (big or small block), get the motor mounts to match.

When bolting the motor mounts to the block, there are three tapped holes on each side. The front two are for full size cars, the back two for Cutlii. Also, when you unbolt the Toro front motor mount (you don't need it for RWD applications), be sure to reinstall the timing tab.

The 1970-earlier B/C body cars use a motor mount that is completely different from the A-body mounts. The rubber mount has a threaded stud that fits into a hole in the frame. A nut is installed from the underside. One other wrinkle is that some B/C body cars

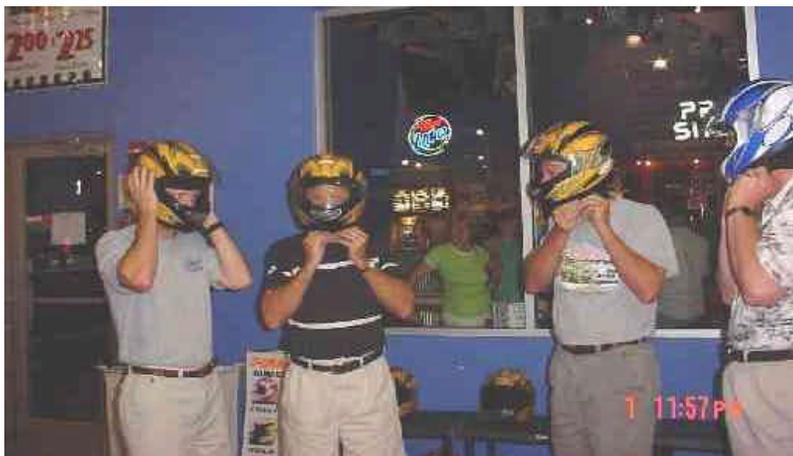

DO use a 1" shim under one motor mount (see notes on the Cutlass offset engine myth.) If the shim is there on the 350, use it in the same place on the 455. Also, note that B/C body motor mounts bolt to the forward two of the three bosses on each side of the block. The A-body cars use the rear two bosses.

Q) Are the 69 onward small block motor and frame mounts exactly the same as the early "one size fits all V8's" units.
A) The answer unfortunately is no. The 69-up small block mounts are not the same as the 68-down universal mounts. The net combination of matched motor and frame mounts for a specific year is always the same, but the individual parts may be different from year-to-year.

Q) What is the earliest year motor and frame mounts that will put a V8 into an A-Body?
A) 1964 330 motor and frame mounts used as a matched set will install any 64-up (except, of course, the 394) Olds V8 in a 64 A-body. Ditto for 65, 66, etc.

Q) Are there any better quality mounts or mounts to avoid?
A) General consensus is that the G.M. rubber mounts (made in the U.S.A.) are the best rubber ones. Also, for reference, the Mondello SM300 mounts appear to be solid versions of the Sealed Power 270-2261 mounts and SM400's appear to be the solid version of the 270-2328.

HURST/OLDS DAY 2005

by Karl Sup

May 21st was Hurst/Olds Day at the Scottsdale Pavilions, held in conjunction with the Hurst Olds Club of America's national H/O Day. Normally May 21st would be relatively mild, however the weather didn't quite cooperate with us this day. With the thermometer reaching 113 degrees, it turned out to be the hottest day of the year so far.

The heat turned away quite a few Hurst/Olds' from attending the afternoon event. But not everyone!! Chris brought out his unrestored 1968 H/O, while a couple drove all the way from Juarez, Mexico (near El Paso) with their 72 H/O. The Victor brothers brought their 68 442 Convertible and 1970 Cutlass SX W32. A special guest arrived too... an ex-68 H/O corporate sponsored racer made in photographs of his former 1970. Despite the dry next year!!

the trip in from Prescott to show off the amazing race car running on the track back in 1968, 1969 and heat, the event was small but fun. Hope to see you

NEXT MEETING, SATURDAY, JULY 23, 2005

The next meeting of the Oldsmobile Club of Arizona will be held on Saturday, July 23rd at 5:00 p.m. (to beat the heat!) The meeting place is the Sweet Tomatoes Restaurant located in the Scottsdale Pavilions Shopping Center, Loop 101 and Indian Bend Rd in Scottsdale. In conjunction with our meeting, there is a car show at the Rock 'n' Roll McDonald's. We have a row reserved in the McDonald's parking lot exclusively for our club members. This is great time to have a meal and talk with Olds friends. Come out and join the fun!

WATSON LAKE SHOW, AUGUST 6th

Those interested in driving up together to Prescott to the Watson Lake car show on Saturday, August 6th, will be meeting at 6:45 a.m. in the Denny's parking lot on the Southwest corner of I-17 & Bell Rd. After the show, Jim & Trudi Schultz will host a pizza party in their 6,000 sf garage. You will be able to see his large car collection, with most of them being Oldsmobiles. This alone is worth the drive up to Prescott. See the flyer in this newsletter for more information.

COME OUT AND BOWL ON AUGUST 14TH

On Sunday, August 14th the club is holding it's annual bowl-off. Come out and show off your talents, or lack of in many cases! This is always a fun event. The bowling alley is smoke free. Prizes will be awarded in many categories. Even if you are the worst bowler in history, you may win a prize! See the flyer in this newsletter for more information.

ANNUAL PROGRESSIVE DINNER IN SEPTEMBER

On Saturday, September 17th we will be holding our 5th annual progressive dinner. It will have a M*A*S*H theme, based on the popular TV show. Instead of calling it M*A*S*H 4077th as the TV show was named, we are calling it M*A*S*H 442! Please dress as your favorite M*A*S*H character.

At the dessert home we will play some games that are always good for a laugh. There will be chances to win exciting prizes as well. This event is always lots of fun. Please join us! See the flyer in this newsletter for more information.
